

Your lie's a fire, watch the whole city burn in flames
And it's spreading quickly the more you say my name
But I'm not listening, stone cold to the touch
So just be careful or you'll burn up with what you lost

In the Fire as the flames get higher
And they whistle out my name
As I look around at the ash on the ground
I have no fear I have no shame
You douse all your lies with gasoline in disguise
But I can see through all your smoke
So I pitched a match and finished burning what's left of
The girl you used to know

The embers flicker and they sure don't miss a beat
But I walk towards them despite of all the heat
Yeah I stay silent, people don't care about the truth
And I'm not afraid anymore because I've got nothing to lose

In the Fire as the flames get higher
And they whistle out my name
As I look around at the ash on the ground
I have no fear I have no shame
You douse all your lies with gasoline in disguise
But I can see through all your smoke
So I pitched a match and finished burning what's left of
The girl you used to know

In the Fire as the flames get higher And they whistle out my name
(Your lie's a fire, watch the city burn in flames)
As I look around at the ash on the ground I have no fear I have no shame
(And It's spreading quickly the more you say my name)
You douse all your lies with gasoline in disguise but I can see through all your smoke
(But I'm not listening, come on throw your sticks and stones)
So I pitched a match and finished burning what's left of (But just be careful of the)
Girl you used to know
